Alaska and other data of particular interest to hunters. The governor said the man in question was pretty thoroughly posted on hunting conditions in Alaska and that what little he might be able to give him might be of scant use to him. The Norwich man proposes to head a party of eastern Connecticut men who contemplate a season's hunting in Alaska this fall.

Governor Clark stated that in all probability the Norwich man was already in receipt of his reply, as it came in the mail on the same steamer that he sailed on from Juneau, on March 4.

May Build Ten Houses.
Col. W. H. Hall of South Willimantic recently purchased the tract of land bounded by Lexington avenue on the north, Hewitt street on the east, Sumner street on the south and Oak street on the west from the Windham Silk company. Mr. Hall said that he was not prepared to make any statement as to what he intended to do with the land at present. It is rumored, however, that he contemplates the erection of ten two-story houses on the tract at no distant date. The scarcity of tenements in the city, that are desirable, is said to be the reason for what is believed to be Mr. Hall's intention. There is an excellent field for more tenements of a good class and the site just purchased is admirably adapted one for houses of this class.

MONTGOMERY HOSE CO.
Celebrates St. Patrick's Day and Feasts in Real Irish—Badges Presented.

Thursday night was a big night for Montgomery Hose company, No. 2, when about one hundred members, honorary, associate and active, with a few guests gathered in the Jackson street firehouse to a fittingly commemorate St. Patrick's day.

The quarters were elaborately bedecked by Decorator D. D. Donahue. The decorations comprised American flags, hats with green bands, shamrock, blackthorn, willow, laurel and pictures of Irish patriots artistically arranged. A feature was a large green flameless fire light placed in front of the building, illuminating the street in grand style.

This entertainment programme was rendered at 9 o'clock. Piano solo, James Haggerty; vocal solo, John Collins; violin solo, Henry Carey; vocal solo, William A. Costello; vocal solo, Eugene Martin; address by Foreman Louis J. Flynn; addresses by Mayor Daniel P. Dunn and ex-Mayor O. O. Tanner.

The assemblage then adjourned to the banquet hall, where about 100 sat down to a finely served supper prepared under the personal supervision of Fritz Hornberger. The menu was as follows:

Irish Songs at New England Supper.

The Connecticut Dairymen's association held an institute in the town hall at Pachaug on Thursday. The institute was held from 10 o'clock with an address of welcome by W. C. Terry, master of the Pachaug grange, and responded to by G. Warren Davis, vice president of the association. H. O. Daniels of Middlesex spoke on Economic Dairy Feeding. Lunch was served noon by the ladies of the grange. The session was opened in the afternoon by a selection entitled "Seasonal Grange," sung by Miss Alice McBroome, Mrs. E. H. Hinz, E. F. Burleson and R. L. Frost, with F. S. Leonard at the organ. Mr. Frost sang "Put On Your Old Gray Bonnet," as an encore. The first speaker was Prof. J. M. Trueman of the Connecticut agricultural college, his subject being "The Necessity for the Methods of Producing Clean Milk—Why and How? First why, because of the effect it has upon a man of producing a perfect article; because the milk is to be used for food, and because pure milk should be sent to the cities. Also the creamery man cannot produce good, wholesome butter without clean clean connection. The how is simply for every farmer to be on his job and study up the matter. He answered numerous questions in the connection. The quartette sang "The Old Brown Home-Steak," Miss McBroome singing "Roses for you are here."

Theodore A. Stanley, proprietor of Cedar Hill farm, discussed the problem of raising corn in Connecticut, when and how to raise it, and what kinds to use according to situation, and when to cut for the silo. The dinner for the grange was served by Mrs. W. C. Terry, R. H. Young, E. C. Blase, J. C. Schwink, Jr., secretary, E. J. Hempstead, Jr., director.

New England Supper.
Mrs. George A. Haskell had charge of a New England supper held in the Congregational vestry on St. Patrick's day evening. The supper consisted of a well-furnished table, and the room was trimmed in green and with shamrocks on the wall and on the paper napkins. In the evening, Mrs. Walter Marshall had arranged an entertainment of Irish songs, which proved entertaining and were admirably sung. Molly Bawn was Walter Marshall's selection, and Dublin Daisies was sung by Shepherd Brown; A. F. Shaw sang "The Emerald Isle," and Mrs. Margaret Kaye "The Irish Emigrant"; Miss Margaret Jackson sang "The Dear Little Shamrock." Each one was obliged to respond to an encore.

INDIANAPOLIS CONVENTION.
Reviewed by Supt. of Schools Kelly for Benefit of Meriden Teachers.

Supt. W. P. Kelly spoke to a large audience of Meriden teachers Monday afternoon on the Indianapolis convention. He said the programme of the Indianapolis convention was based on the difference in children. The following particular subjects were taken up:

The mental alertness of the child.
The child's responsibility.
The mental attitudes, taste and tendencies.
The physical condition.
The environment.
The vocational aim.

The educators believe that all children cannot be treated alike. Some children are too slow to get through the schools as they are, so the plan of schooling should be changed for them. Some are quick enough to get through faster and a change in the system must be made for them. Some children are way out of the normal and ought not to be put in the public schools.

In considering the physical condition of children a great deal of stress was laid on this subject, not only by the superintendents' association but by the other school associations meeting at the same in Indianapolis.

One great point brought out in this regard was that physically healthy children are one of the greatest assets to the community and should be kept healthy. The public must be educated in preventive medicine through the treatment of pupils in the schools. Conservation is a popular topic and the greatest conservation is the welfare of the child.
